

What Newcomer Thinks of Hope

The Hope Rotary Club heard "What a Newcomer Thinks of Hope—From the Viewpoints of a Citizen, a Teacher, and a Preacher," when James Hardin spoke at the weekly luncheon meeting at the Town and Country last Friday. Mr. Hardin, Principal at Hope Junior High School and a supply minister in Prescott, fills all three categories and presented a most enlightening comparison of Southwest Arkansas and his former home in Florida.

He gave high praise to the people of this, his newly adopted home, and gentle criticism to the streets in Hope. Though he does not see much difference in the prices at the two locations, the change of seasons here is in marked contrast to his former home and he likes the change. He also expressed admiration for young people's attitude toward manners and adult regard for religion, which he has found here. Club President Paul Klipsch, president, and Dr. L.T. Lawrence, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officially welcomed E. L. Archer Jr. as a new member. Dr. Roy K. Seale of Dallas was a club guest, and John Hawkins of Texarkana was a visiting Rotarian. Edwin Stewart arranged for the program and introduced the speaker.

Battle Set Back U.S. Cleanup Try

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The battle of Tay Ninh Province set back a major U.S. effort to clean out Viet Cong guerrillas near Saigon.

Nearly half the combat battalions of the 1st Infantry Division had been wheeled into position for the big pacification campaign. Some operations had been mounted just outside the Vietnamese capital.

Then elements of the Viet Cong 9th Division, a main force outfit, opened major attacks in Tay Ninh Province about 60 miles northwest of Saigon. The 1st Division had to rush to the critical battleground.

Only a few hours before the Tay Ninh battle erupted Nov. 3, senior officers of the 1st Division told a newsman the VC 9th had been "pushed back into the briar patch" along the Cambodian border.

The 1st Division could concentrate on "grinding up the guerrillas" as close as five miles from Saigon, these officials said.

The VC 9th crossed up the American plans.

The U.S. plan — which probably will be carried out after the Tay Ninh battle ends — calls for four battalions of the 1st Division to do pacification work.

Rules U of A Trustees Can't Be Sued

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Supreme Court held today that the Board of Trustees of the University of Arkansas is regarded as an agency of the state and therefore cannot be sued.

The decision came in an August 1965 suit by state Labor Commissioner Bill Laney against the board charging that 68 women employed in the university's food service in Fayetteville worked in excess of eight hours a day and did not receive overtime in violation of state labor laws.

The court upheld the board's contention that the suit was unlawful because it was a proceeding against the state and the state cannot be sued. The court cited a U.S. Supreme Court decision holding that the board of the university is a "body politic incorporate," and is demoted as a "public agency."

The court's decision affirmed a Pulaski Chancery Court ruling.

In another decision, the court upheld the proposed exchange of Riverdale Country Club in Little Rock for property owned by Pleasant Valley Inc.

The court reversed and remanded to St. Francis County Circuit Court a judgment against the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad Co. The court held that the trial judge erred in remarking in court on testimony offered as evidence. The award had gone to Rachel Adair, widow of E. B. Adair, who was fatally injured when the car in which he was riding struck a train Oct. 23, 1963, on U.S. 70 at Wheatley.

Sukarno Sounds Like Old Self

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Sukarno sounded more like his old self today in a speech to new officers from the armed forces academy. It was his third major speech in a week and appeared to observers to reflect increasing confidence in his position.

Sukarno said Malaysia was still a neocolonialist project but Indonesia's armed might had settled the problem.

rockets which put them in a lower orbit.

Tuesday after conducting navigation experiments, the pilots plan to fire retro-rockets about 1:43 p.m. and land about 2:22 p.m. in the Atlantic 700 miles southeast of Cape Kennedy, bringing down the final curtain on America's Gemini program.

Aldrin's success strolling in space Sunday for 2 hours, 9 minutes "demonstrated quite adequately that, with proper restraints and aids, extravehicular activity and can be a very successful thing," said mission director William C. Schneider.

After previous space walkers had trouble positioning themselves outside, Aldrin's activities were tailored to see if leverage and fatigue problems could be overcome.

Handholds and foot restraints were attached on Gemini 12 and the Agena. Tethers around his waist enabled Aldrin to fasten himself like a window washer while doing nut-and-bolt type tasks at work stations.

Pacing himself so heart and respiration rate stayed low, Aldrin even had time to wipe Lovell's window.

Saturday and Sunday, Aldrin accumulated a space endurance record of more than 4½ hours.

ATTACKING

miles east of Tay Ninh City Sunday and 31 tons today.

Tay Ninh Province has long been a Viet Cong stronghold and U.S. troops in the past week's fighting have identified the enemy force as the 9th Viet Cong division plus a regiment of North Vietnamese regulars.

In support of Operation Attleboro, one of the three B52 raids today hit a Viet Cong supply area and base camp 30 miles northeast of Tay Ninh City. It was the fifth straight day of B52 raids on Tay Ninh Province.

Another B52 raid hammered at a Viet Cong storage area in War Zone D 45 miles northeast of Saigon.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported that a Viet Cong force of unknown size overran a Vietnamese outpost 34 miles southwest of Saigon today. The outpost was defended by a platoon of Popular Force troops, about 30 men.

A Vietnamese spokesman said the platoon suffered heavy casualties. The spokesman said that nine women and children dependents of the platoon were killed in the attack.

Blind Population

Of an estimated 350,000 blind persons in the United States, less than 10 per cent are children and more than 50 per cent are over 65 years of age. At least 25 per cent of the blind population is considered employable and can become self-supporting with training.

BETHESDA, Md. — The National Library of Medicine here has the world's first "electronic librarian," a pair of Honeywell computers used to cope with the tidal wave of information now engulfing the medical sciences.

The computers are part of a new medical literature analysis and retrieval system that keeps track of approximately 160,000 medical articles annually. The library expects to be receiving about 250,000 articles a year by 1970.

Newcomer to Football Sets Records

By LEW FERGUSON

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — Five weeks ago in Baltimore, Gary Yepremian set foot on an American football field for the first time in his life.

Sunday, he broke the National Football League record by kicking six field goals, ranging from 15 to 33 yards, as the Detroit Lions edged the Minnesota Vikings 32-31.

Now, he proclaimed in the dressing room, he plans to become "at least one of the best" kickers in professional football.

"That's why I chose No. 1 (his jersey number)," he said, and somehow it didn't sound like the little 22-year-old immigrant was bragging. The 5-foot-8, 165-pounder sounded too honest to be bragging.

"I am a good kicker," he said, "but I want to be one of the best."

Yepremian's background is even more intriguing than that of the Gogolak brothers, Pete and Charley, pro football's best-known soccer-style kickers.

Yepremian, who boots with his left foot and looks like the Lions have suited up some high schooler when he trots onto the field, is a native of Cyprus. He's of Armenian descent and lived in a Greek neighborhood on Cyprus.

He left Cyprus in 1960 when he was 16, then spent 5½ years in London as a salesman in a haberdashery. He played amateur soccer on the side—with the Armenian Youth Society, a church club.

Yepremian came to the United States last summer to visit his brother, Krikor, in Indianapolis. Krikor has been in this country eight years and attended Indiana University.

His brother helped him write letters to all the NFL and American Football League teams, seeking employment as a kicker.

The new Atlanta Falcons answered him first, inviting him to a tryout. Then the Lions also replied, extending an invitation for a look-see.

He went to Detroit, tried out for Coach Harry Gilmer and was signed on the field. He says a major factor in his selecting Detroit was that he found an Armenian church there and likes the city.

AFTERNOON "TEA"

Dear Helen:

I'm a traveling salesman and I used to drop into bars after I got through work in the afternoon. No more. In the last few years I can't get close to a bar because all these housewives are lapping up the sauce.

Will you please tell the ladies to stay home where they belong and fix dinner instead of taking over man's domain—especially when the ball games are on?—BUGGED

Dear Bugged:

Telling the gals won't make them do it, chum. They probably figure if it's sauce for the gander, the goose has squatter's rights too.

And, besides, all housewives may be female, but all females aren't housewives—those gals you see in bars COULD be traveling saleswomen—or something.—H.

Dear Helen:

I'm 35, the mother of eight children. I really try hard to be a good wife and mother and I love them all very much.

My husband is one swell guy with one exception. I guess I'm too stubborn or immature to overlook it. I guess I'm just a jealous wife.

He runs around. He says he has to work late, but until 5 a.m.? He has admitted being unfaithful three times and there are probably more. His father sees nothing wrong with this as he is the same kind of bar-hopper. As long as it doesn't mean anything to them, they don't think it's I'm making a big thing over nothing—after all, the eight children prove who he really loves, they say.

He's wonderful to the kids, and a perfect husband when he is home. But I can't make myself overlook this, no matter how I try. I don't feel like first fiddle. How can I learn patience?—T.Y.K.

Dear T:

Patience would help this situation like a father's checkbook helps a spoiled son. A first fiddle stays that way by calling the tune. Make a quiet ultimatum and mean every word you say!

... And when your husband wants to go out on the town, hire a sitter, and show him eight children haven't slowed you down... much.—H.

Dear Helen:

The guy I'd most like to shove out of the door always says of a joke, "Yeah, I heard THAT one before!" You, too, Helen?—DEFLATED

Dear Deflated:

Me too! Another bright fellow I'd ban from my vision—Makes MY story sound dull when he tops it with his'n!—H.

Dear Helen:

Here's another whyohwhy. My husband gets upset when I don't notice his new haircut, but he never notices when I mow the lawn, and that's a lot bigger job. I make it a point to say some thing nice about his hair, but he takes my work for granted. How come?—MOWIN' LOW

Dear Mowin' Low:

You might make it "No Mow" and then he'd really moan low. When a wife does man's work, the least he can do is compliment her on it?—H.

Dear Helen:

What do you say when a woman sends you as a birthday gift a handkerchief that has obviously been washed, but to make it new again, she has pasted on an "All Linen" label? The hankie wasn't even all linen!—MRS. X

Dear Mrs. X:

I'd say, "Don't look a gift hankie in the weave."—H.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With excellent timing and delightful imagination, ABC's "Bewitched" Thursday night came up with a thoroughly comprehensible explanation of last year's big blackout.

Aunt Clara, whose powers of sorcery are not as dependable as they were when she was younger, accidentally put out the lights of the entire Eastern Seaboard when all she was trying to do was move a grand piano by means of witchcraft.

That the program came almost on the anniversary of the blackout was, of course, no coincidence, and it fitted in nicely since a lot of people have been recalling where they were and what they did on the night when all the lights went out.

"Bewitched" was not the only show that was busily taking some liberties with history Thursday night. CBS' "Jericho" used the daring removal of Mussolini from a mountain top by German troops, engineered late in World War II by German Col. Otto Skorzeny as the base of a fictitious, flamboyant adventure for the show's intrepid secret agents.

The program even had a character, "Major Otto Von Zeeny," who seemed almost as smart as the heroes — except he was bad, of course.

The rescue of Mussolini by the Germans, however, was mostly a point of reference and at most a subplot. The three superagents of the story were busy trying to get the German plans for the Italian invasion.

And the blackout was just one ingredient in the "Bewitched" episode. As it developed, baby-sitting, Aunt Clara's romance and the sale of a million-dollar advertising campaign were the more important ingredients.

In spite of all the pre-season announcements about meaningful, significant drama that was going to be the spice of the current television season, two months have passed, and so far we have not seen any of it.

Austrian Wigs From U.S. Hair

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The hair of Austrian wigs for the U.S. market has become tangled in East-West politics.

The U.S. government ruled last August that wigs imported into America had to have a government certificate that they contained no hair from Red China or Communist North Vietnam.

The Salzburg manufacturer of 90 per cent of Austria's wigs for export said he uses Italian and Indian hair, as manufacturers in West Germany and Italy do. The Austrian government, unlike the governments of Italy and West Germany, said it would not provide the necessary certificate.

Wildcats Regain Top Position

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Little Rock, last year's champion, returned to the top today in the Associated Press Arkansas high school football poll and needs only to get by Little Rock Catholic on Thanksgiving Day to nail down its second consecutive title.

The Wildcats got 13 first place votes and 139 points of a possible 140 on the heels of their 28-9 conquest of Fort Smith Northside, last week's poll leader.

North Little Rock has swept past 10 foes in 11 games, losing only to Little Rock Hall when quarterback Darrell Hatchett saw little service.

Hall moved into second place with 118 points in the voting by 14 sports writers and broadcasters. Northside fell to third with 107 points.

In fourth place was Fort Smith Southside with 103 points. The Rebels, who lost to North Little Rock 22-10 earlier in the year, got the other first place vote.

That quartet has ranked near the top all year and no one has challenged them since Texarkana plunged a week ago.

Fayetteville moved into fifth place and Crossett moved up to sixth. Rounding out the top ten in order were Texarkana, Little Rock Central, Springdale and Sheridan.

Crossett missed by one point being a unanimous selection as the top Class AA team while Norphlet missed by the same margin in Class B. Brinkley retained its position in the Class A rankings as the No. 1 team.

Capelletti Regains Scoring Lead

BOSTON (AP) — Gino Capelletti, owner of a sturdy toe and glued fingertips, resumed his role as the American Football League's leading scorer today after going from goat to hero within a week.

Capelletti, bidding for his fifth scoring title in the AFL's seven-year history, connected for 21 points Sunday as the sputtering Boston Patriots held on for a 27-21 victory over Houston.

The 32-year-old former Minnesota star scored touchdowns on passes from Babe Parilli covering 63 and 31 yards, booted field goals from 28 and 44 yards out and kicked three conversions in boosting his nine-game output to 84 points.

"It took me all week to shake the nightmare of the Denver game from my system," Capelletti said.

Capelletti fought a battle within himself after he failed on a 20-yard field goal attempt with 27 seconds to go against Denver. The Broncos then struck back and snapped Boston's three-game winning streak by hitting on a long pass with just two seconds left for a 17-10 rain-soaked victory.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Sixth-ranked Arkansas has returned to the top in the Southwest Conference football race — the position the forecasters said it would occupy and the position Razorback fans have begun to expect rather than hope for.

And, it may be said, they did it the hard way, rebounding from an exasperating 7-0 defeat at the hands of Baylor to a comeback triumph over Texas and consecutive victories over Texas A&M, Rice and Southern Methodist.

The Mustangs became the latest victim, taking a punishing 22-0 blow on the chin here Saturday as the Porkers turned in a performance similar to their 34-0 crushing of the Aggies.

Those were the key victories since both teams were unbeaten in the conference when they met the Porkers.

So, now Frank Broyles is in a position to gain no less than a tie for a third straight conference title plus a berth in the Cotton Bowl.

The only team left on the schedule is Texas Tech, which has won only three times in nine starts.

Bob White got the Porkers off and running against the Mustangs with a 39-yard field goal in the first five minutes of play and a tenacious defense took over after that, shutting down everything the Mustangs had to offer in a potent offensive arsenal.

Again it was Martine Berchere, the senior safety, who broke the game open with a punt return, this one 69 yards for a second quarter touchdown that in the end wasn't needed, but provided a cushion nonetheless.

David Dickey, tireless sophomore, pounded the heart of SMU's defense for 133 yards on 38 carries, two of them for touchdowns. The 38 carries set a conference record.

And Jon Brittenum, the cool senior quarterback, directed an offense that kept field position throughout the game, even though it failed to score on two splendid opportunities in the first half.

Hayden Fry, the former Arkansas assistant now heading the staff at SMU, told the story of the game:

"We got whipped any way you look at it. I don't think they made a mistake the whole game. Name the department and they whipped us. They beat us on the snaps, the charges and everything."

"I am so proud of our football team," said Broyles, who could not hide his joy.

He praised his defense, his offense, his senior leaders and his coaching staff for the job they've done this year.

Hull Has a Remedy for Aching Back

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bobby Hull has come up with San Francisco. A 3-2 victory 183 212, a remedy for his aching back, but the pain is becoming unbearable for the Montreal Canadiens.

Hull, back in action after missing Chicago's previous game with a back ailment, fired two goals Sunday night as the Black Hawks trounced Toronto 6-1 in a battle for first place in the National Hockey League.

At Boston, meanwhile, defenseman Ted Green's unassisted third-period goal gave the Bruins a 2-1 victory over Montreal, dropping the defending NHL champions into last place.

The proud Canadiens, who have lost four in a row, trail the fifth-place Bruins by one point in the early race.

In Sunday night's other game, linemates Reg Fleming, Earl Ingarfield and Boom Boom Geoffrion paced the New York Rangers to a 5-2 triumph over the Detroit Red Wings.

FAMILY INCOME UP

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. family income is going up pretty fast, according to a study by the Bureau of Economic Analysis.

Last year's median family income of $3,382 — the amount which included all members of the family — was up 4.4 percent over the 1956 figure. In the same 10-year period, the Bureau said, the Bureau of Labor's consumer price index rose 13.5 percent.

Last year's median family income was up 1.3 percent over 1955 compared with a 1.7 percent increase in the first of 1956.

MSC, Notre Dame Week's Top Contest

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer

Nobody can quibble with Ara Parseghian and Duffy Daugherty this week when they are quoted as saying: "We're not looking past this week's game."

That's the cliché the two coaches have stuck with most of the season, but this time it is for real. This is the week Parseghian's top-ranked Notre Dame and Daugherty's second-rated Michigan State meet in one of the most eagerly awaited college football games in years.

The Irish and Spartans set up their unbeaten battle with easy victories last Saturday, Notre Dame over Duke 64-0 and Michigan State over Indiana 37-19.

Terry Hanratty, back on the beam, completed eight of 13 passes for 127 yards and two touchdowns, one to favorite receiver Jim Seymour. The Irish also intercepted four passes in upping their record to 8-0.

Michigan State, winning its second straight Big Ten title, piled up a 37-7 lead as Jimmy Raye threw for three touchdowns and the defense held the Hoosiers to a minus 10 yards rushing.

With Michigan State ineligible for a Rose Bowl bid after going last year, Purdue, 5-1, wrapped up an almost certain bowl trip by polishing off chief challenger Minnesota 18-0.

Illinois, 4-2, clobbered Wisconsin 49-14, but even an Illinois victory over Northwestern Saturday and a Purdue loss to Indiana would give the Boilermakers the bid because they have never made the bowl trip before.

South's four-heart call was an all-purpose bid. He wasn't sure that he would be able to make it. In fact, he rather expected not to make it; on the other hand his partner had passed as dealer, the opponents were vulnerable and South was really afraid of the spade suit.

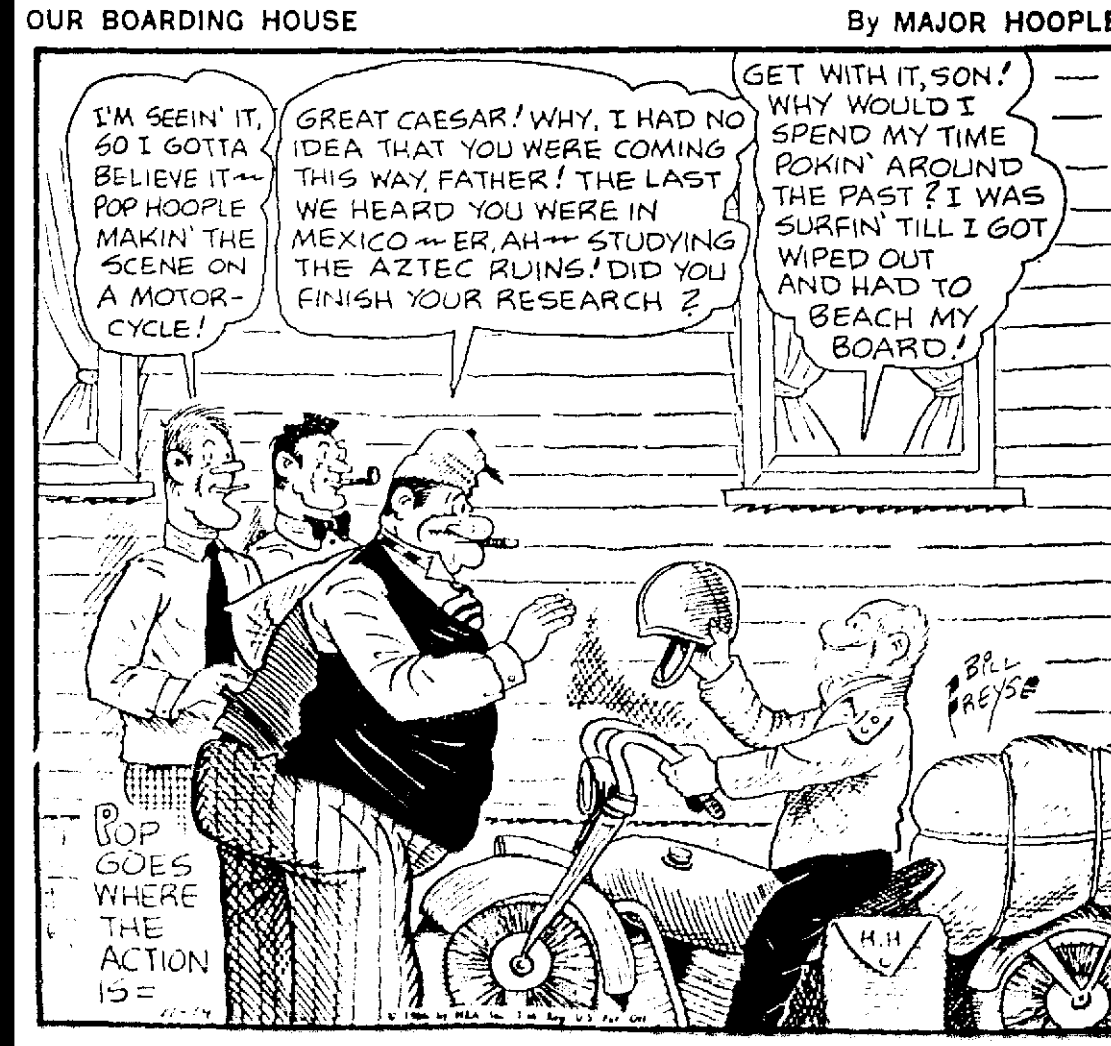

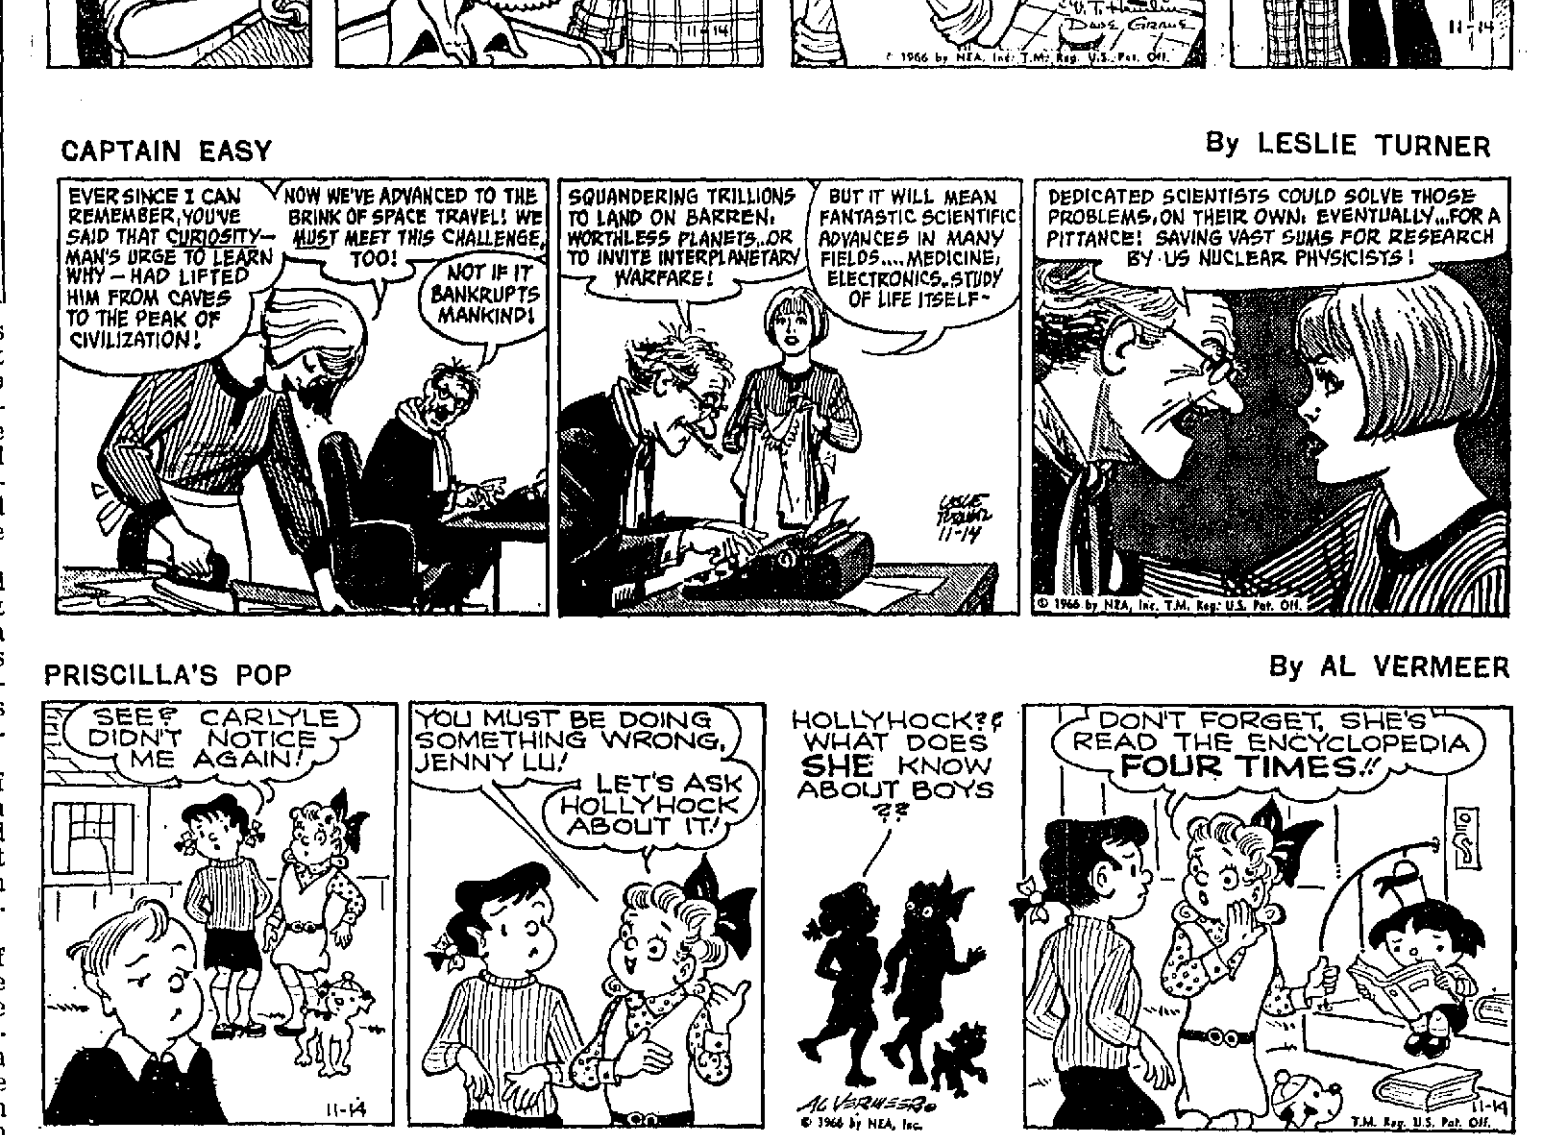

We don't give our full seal of approval to South's bid but we have always felt that a player who makes such bids should be able to get maximum mileage out of his cards when he gets around to playing the dummy.

West opened the king of spades and continued. South ruffed the second spade and led a club to dummy. East dropped the nine spot. Then South finessed the heart unsuccessfully.

If West had been one of those wooden type players he would have led another spade but West had seen his partner's nine of clubs. West led a second club. The defense wound up with one trick in each suit and 50 points on their side of the ledger.

South explained that if the trump finesse had worked he would have made his game and that East and West could have made three spades. He was right about all that but he should have made his contract.

There is no rule requiring declarer to play trumps right away. South was looking at a potential loser in clubs but he had a potential spot to get rid of that loser. South should have played ace and another diamond the first time he was in. West's best defense would be to take his king and shoot a diamond back. South would play low from dummy and ruff. Then he could lead out ace and another trump and it wouldn't matter where the king was. South would be able to get rid of the losing club on the queen of diamonds.

The number of American households is steadily increasing and so is the percentage headed by women. The total grew from 43.6 million in 1950 to 58.1 million in 1966. But while only one in about seven was headed by a woman in 1950, it is one out of every five currently. The increasing proportion of elderly people in the population and the edge of several years women have over men in longevity are largely responsible for the change.

ITALIAN SOCCER FANS know of only a few things that interest them more than their favorite sport, but Sophia Loren tops the list. When Sophia showed up to dedicate a new sports stadium in Rome, the fans forgot all about the game between Rome and Naples and closed in for Sophia's autograph.

THE PINK LADY of Malibu Canyon is now a thing of the past. The lady in question was painted atop a one-way-at-a-time traffic tunnel entrance and was considered to be a menace to navigation. It took 14 gallons of brown paint to convert the tunnel to an artistic disaster.

SOUTH KOREAN President Park Chung Hee said Nov. 11 in Seoul that no more South Korean regular combat units will be sent to Viet Nam. He indicated that South Korean reservists might be sent to Viet Nam for duty at American military installations as noncombatants.

A GOODYEAR BLIMP, one of the only two helium-filled dirigibles still airborne in the United States, came down with a bang in Los Angeles the night of Nov. 10 as the big craft was trying to make an emergency landing. The ship was reported to have lost power in an engine, causing it to hit power lines while the pilot and copilot were trying to land. Neither man was injured.

TWO BRITISH CHILDREN had trouble moving this giant toy that captured their attentions outside London's Strand Palace Hotel, where a pre-Christmas display of toys was being set up. The ponderous plaything should take up a lot of room in Santa's sled.

'Rearming' for Christmas

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The jungle fighter had a queer smile on his face as he leaned around a brick wall and observed a man standing a few feet away. Quickly he pulled a small black bomb from behind his back and set the fuse with a twist.

The bomb began to tick loudly. Then it was rolled under the legs of the human target.

There was an explosion, of course, but not really. The soldier was a 7-year-old boy, the target was his father and the bomb was only a toy. It happened in the kiddie corner of a large, very gaily decorated department store. Everybody who heard the blast laughed at it.

Then they returned to their Christmas shopping.

It was all in fun, understand, but no matter. Even if the father had gotten a leg blown off, he was in the right place. This season's Christmas toys allow for any eventuality... and just two aisles over was a "genuine" medical corps kit, replete with bandages, a hypodermic needle, blood plasma bottles and a stretcher.

And actually, the make-believe medical corps kit should be a "must" item on Dec. 25. This year the weary war in Viet Nam has inspired any number of ways a counter-insurgent youngster can make believe he is exterminating his family.

The Booby Trap Land Mine is a ripe example. It is an olive drab explosive device rigged to a trip spring—just like the Viet Cong does it. When the setup is triggered the bomb shoots "high into the air and explodes." This lift, presumably, makes for a clean kill in the area of the stomach.

"Here's another nifty," said a clerk.

"What is it?" he was asked.

"A Molotov cocktail."

His Name Is Sandor and He Remembers 1956

By TOM A. CULLEN
European Staff

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

BUDAPEST—(NEA)—No one would ever suspect Sandor of being a Hungarian, let alone a hero of the October 1956 Hungarian revolution, as he huddled in his seat on the night flight from Munich to Budapest.

For one thing, there was his age. Judging by his boyish appearance, he could hardly

"You know. Real ones are filled with gas and rag wicks."

"Oh."

"Beautiful, isn't it? And it's selling like hell."

All war toys are. Though most manufacturers insist they are "steering away from combat items," it is not evident in the merchandise mart. In fact, many stores look like ammunition dumps and the shelves are loaded with guns that bang, tanks that pow, planes that roar... and pictures of boys with bayonets in their teeth.

One realistic design is a life-size hand grenade which, when thrown at the neighborhood kid or somebody, detonates a loud cap in its warhead.

Another is a "155" artillery piece that is operated electronically with blinking lights and flash suppressor and, on command, knocks down a small stone wall.

Then there is the magnetic drawing kit which enables a lad to color a knife-wielding frogman vicious. Or the binoculars which shoot guided missiles, or the replicas of the M-16 automatic rifle, or the Blitzkrieg "game of lightning warfare."

But perhaps the most elaborate of all is the GI Joe doll. It comes ready to dress in a dozen different costumes from jungle fatigues to Australian bush uniforms. And each outfit, be assured, carries all manner of sidearms, machine guns, flame throwers and survival kits.

All of this, in truth, is deplored by many toy makers. "It's ghastly," admits one. But in defense they say simply that they are "giving the people exactly what they want."

And thus, it seems, football uniforms and electric trains have taken the rear echelon this Yule; holiday trees are destined to be surrounded by steel helmets, plastic road mines, ammunition clips and satchel charges.

Do not open any of the packages before Christmas.

And even then, be careful about it.

have been more than a tyke in 1956 when the population of Hungary arose against its Russian and native Communist oppressors.

Then there were his clothes. The raw silk suit looked as American as the cigarettes he was smoking.

As a matter of fact, Sandor was born in Budapest, but is now a Canadian citizen. He was returning to his native city to visit his parents and although he had the visa of the Hungarian People's Republic stamped in his passport he felt uneasy.

"I guess I'm what you would call a split personality," he confided. "Most of the time I think of myself as a Canadian, but now that we're approaching Budapest I feel all mixed up inside. I don't know what I am."

Over the roar of the Ilyushin engines he told me his story, speaking in English with only a trace of accent. "Ten years ago I was one of those who fought the Russians in the streets of Budapest," he began. "It was hopeless from the start, but it seemed worth-while at the time, trying to stop Russian tanks with our bare hands." His smile was a wry one.

Only 15 at the time, Sandor was an all-around athlete at his local gymnasium, which is Hungarian for high school. "I was a champion swimmer and I was selected for the all-young team to play soccer in the big sports stadium," he explained. "I couldn't have cared less about politics."

Sandor and his fellow students at the gymnasium took part in the October uprising more as a lark, but they were soon caught up in its stirring events.

They saw the statue of Joseph Stalin toppled from its pedestal in City Park until all that was left of the Soviet dictator were his giant boots. They saw the Hungarian flag for the first time without its hated hammer-and-sickle emblem. The Hungarians simply used scissors to cut this emblem from the flag's center.

They heard the crowds chanting, "Russians go home!" as they marched on Parliament Square. That was on Oct. 23, 1956. Two days later there was a bloody massacre in this same square, when Russian tanks, abetted by AVH secret police snipers on the rooftops, opened fire on the unarmed demonstrators. They fled in panic, leaving behind their dead like little dark mounds of discarded clothing on the cobblestones.

Events like these turned boys like Sandor into men overnight. After the revolution had been drowned in blood, many teen-aged students were forced, like Sandor, to flee abroad. Now, 10 years later, some of them are returning home for the first time to visit their relatives, the present Communist regime of Janos Kadar allowing them into the country on limited visas.

Now, at 25, Sandor is earning good money as a civil engineer in Toronto. He had been sponsored by a Canadian family, who helped him to complete his education and to find a job. An only child, he has already seen his real parents once, when they came out from behind the Iron Curtain in 1963 to meet him on neutral ground in Vienna. But it was the present reunion on native soil which excited him.

"They'll all be at the airport to meet me—dad, mom and all the aunts and uncles," he said. "There'll be at least 20 of them, you'll see. And my dad will walk down the street with me and his chin will be in the air, he will be so proud."

I asked him if there was any possibility of his parents joining him in Toronto. "I've begged them to," he declared. "I've even offered to buy a house for all of us, because I will need a house anyway when I get married. But they won't have it."

"They have their roots here. They live in a big block of flats where they know everyone. My mom shops at the big central market near Gellert Bridge, where she knows all the stalkkeepers and haggles over the prices like the other women. What would she do in a Canadian supermarket where she knows no one and doesn't even speak the language?"

Youth, 18, Slayer of 4 Women

By DAVE SMITH

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — A quite young man who felt nobody cared for him was under psychiatric care today, after the pistol killing of four women and a little girl because he "wanted to see the headlines with my name in them before I die."

Robert Benjamin Smith, 18, who told police his violent outburst Saturday morning in a local beauty college was inspired by recent mass killings in Chicago and Austin, Tex., remained in Maricopa County jail, scheduled for intensive psychiatric study and treatment before his Dec. 15 preliminary hearing on five counts of murder.

Mesa police continued to fill in missing pieces of the youth's bizarre explanation for the slaying of strangers. A justice of the peace hoped to impanel a coroner's jury today.

The dead were patrons or employees of the Rose-Mar College of Beauty, where Smith ordered five women and two children to lie in a circle on the floor, heads together, then walked around the circle, laughing and firing repeatedly with a .22 pistol at the backs of their heads.

Dead are Joyce Sellers, 27, a customer and the wife of an elder of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon), the dominant religion in this city of 50,000; Deborah Sellers, 3, her sister; Mary Margaret Olsen, 18, beauty college student and fiancée of Mrs. Sellers' brother-in-law; Glenda Carter, 18, also a student beautician; and Carol Farmer, 19, a customer and wife of an Air Force man stationed in Alaska.

Villages in Jordan Are Under Attack

By HAL MCCLURE

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli forces attacked three Jordanian villages and clashed sharply with Jordanian ground and air forces Sunday in a raid retaliating against guerrilla attacks from Israel's Arab neighbors. Shooting also erupted again across the Israeli-Syrian border.

Both Jordan and Israel claimed they inflicted heavy losses.

U.N. observers obtained a cease-fire about four hours after the tank-led Israeli forces swept two miles across Jordan's border. The Israeli troops withdrew. Firing across the Syrian border ended about 6:30 p.m.

Premier Levi Eshkol of Israel said the attack was a "warning raid" against Jordanian centers he charged were used by "El Fatah" commandos as bases for sabotage inside Israel. Israel claims the El Fatah raiders are Jordanians acting under Syrian instigation.

Israel made an aerial attack last July on a Syrian installation in retaliation for El Fatah sabotage, but the terrorist raids have continued.

The Israeli attack, in brigade strength, was made on the Jordanian villages of Samu, Hirbail Karkaz and Jimba. The villages are about 30 miles south of Jerusalem in a bulge of Jordanian territory west of the Dead Sea.

Negro Shot in Head Is Critical

Robert B. Boles, Negro, was shot in the head yesterday at 806 South Edgewood Street. Investigating City Police said he was shot by Doyle Washington, 32 his son-in-law.

Boles was taken to the University Hospital by an Oakcrest Ambulance for treatment. His condition was described as critical.

Officers Clark and Shirley of the City Force said the Negroes lived near and that both of them had guns. They said they shooting, about 4:30 p.m., resulted from a family quarrel.

T.E. Hays Jr. to New York Conference

T.E. HAYS JR.

Thomas E. Hays, Jr., President of the First National Bank of Hope, has been selected as one of two representatives to the 1966 Commercial Bank Management Program in New York City.

Hays left Friday for the week-long program which began today (Monday) and is being held by the Graduate School of Business of Columbia University at the Arden House at the Harriman Campus, Harriman, New York.

The Commercial Bank Management Program is a general management program for commercial bank executives who are engaged in administrative positions at the senior managerial level.

Participants were selected on the basis of maturity, experience, and policy-making responsibility. Hays said the purpose of the Program was to "help bank executives develop a broader understanding of the impact of the economic - political - social environment on business, banking and on policy decisions."

"I am sure this opportunity to meet and discuss with leading authorities from business, education, government, and commercial banking will give us new ideas which we can use to provide even more efficient and complete banking services to our customers and all Hope," he said. Approximately 100 commercial bank executives are attending the Program.

Cleaned Rifle Too Often

LAS VEGAS, N.M. (AP) — A New Mexico Highlands University student, Robert Tussing Jr., 19, was wounded in the hand 10 days ago while cleaning a rifle. He was killed Sunday by a shot in the head, police said, while he and another student were cleaning a rifle. Officers said both shootings apparently were accidental.

Deer Hunter Bullet Hits Man

AITKIN, Minn. (AP) — Harry Elstad was sitting in his farm home Sunday when a stray bullet — apparently fired by a deer hunter — ripped through the outside wall of the home. The bullet went through an interior wall, then hit Elstad's belt. He received a severe bruise but was not hospitalized, the sheriff's office reported.

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — The commandant of the Marine Corps presents colors today to the first military school to be designated a junior Marine Corps officer training unit.

Gen. Wallace Green Jr. will make the presentation in ceremonies at the Marine Military Academy, a private prep school established last year. It has 150 cadets in four high school grades.

Johnson Is Philosophical on GOP Gains

By FRANK CORMIER
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson returns to the White House today, optimistic about the surgery he faces Wednesday and philosophical about Republican election gains.

"I don't think the country is going to the dogs," Johnson told a news conference Sunday in the modernistic municipal center at Fredericksburg, 15 miles west of his Texas ranch.

Johnson announced he will enter the Naval Medical Center at Bethesda, Md., late Tuesday and be operated on there early Wednesday. Doctors will remove a growth from his throat and repair a hernia along the incision from his 1965 gall bladder-kidney stone surgery.

Saying the twin operations "will take perhaps less than an hour," Johnson predicted he would remain in the hospital "a very few days," then return to Texas to spend much of the time until Congress reconvenes Jan. 10.

Republicans made bigger gains in last Tuesday's national election. But, after citing notable Republican support for administration measures in the past three years, the President concluded this did not mean the country was going to the dogs.

"I think that after an election, our motto is tested," he said. "We have to look at our weaknesses and try to patch them up, try to develop our strengths."

He forecast a more united Democratic party and a strengthened GOP.

Johnson did indicate he would be very mindful of increased Republican strength in readying proposals for the 1967 Congress. "I would anticipate we will be very careful in our preparation of our recommendations," he said, "and we will try to enlist the support of both parties. I don't anticipate any great trouble."

The President, meeting with newsmen after attending Sunday services at St. Barnabas Episcopal church in Fredericksburg, announced in a separate statement that Bethesda was selected for his surgery because it is a "central location for the many consultant doctors who are located in Minnesota, New York, Georgia and Washington."

He reminded reporters that he has a standing agreement with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey that spells out procedures by which Humphrey could take over direction of the federal government should Johnson be incapable of carrying out presidential duties.

Johnson disclosed he had signed a foreign investors tax bill which includes a last-minute rider permitting all taxpayers to earmark $1 of their federal income tax payment as a contribution to either Democratic or Republican presidential campaign organizations.

Two Barans Not So Bad Now

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The confusion won't be quite as bad in the 1967 Indiana General Assembly when the two Walter A. Barans return.

Walter A. Baran of East Chicago will be back in the Senate, where he served with Walter A. Baran of Hammond, a fellow Democrat, in 1963. This year the Hammond Baran was elected to the House.

Neither Baran served in the 1965 session. During the 1963 Senate session it was necessary for the reading clerk to add their home towns to their names on voice roll calls. The Barans say they're not related.

Attacking Cong Hit by Big Bombers

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — B-52 bombers struck today at North Vietnamese troops which inflicted heavy casualties on a U.S. infantry company near the Cambodian border. The giant Stratofortress, in one of three raids, hammered at North Vietnamese concentrations 16 miles northwest of the Plei Djereng U.S. Special Forces camp. This was near the area where an estimated 500 North Vietnamese regulars attacked a company — 178 men — of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division Sunday.

A U.S. spokesman said the infantry company suffered heavy casualties in the initial Communist assault of a battle that lasted 1½ hours. He said 26 North Vietnamese were killed.

Elsewhere, only small and sporadic skirmishes were reported as the ground war lapsed into a lull. Over North Viet Nam, bad weather limited U.S. air blows again Sunday.

American pilots flew only 71 bombing missions, well below the daily average. The strikes all were in the southern portion of North Viet Nam and five missions hit at Communist positions inside the demilitarized zone.

The battle around the Plei Djereng Green Beret camp, 230 miles north of Saigon, was one of three clashes Sunday involving U.S. 25th division troops.

In the first, a company of infantrymen engaged a platoon of North Vietnamese 18 miles west of Plei Djereng and reported killing eight in a 25-minute fire fight. Two hours later, the same company engaged an enemy battalion in the biggest encounter of the day.

The North Vietnamese broke contact only after the U.S. force brought up ground reinforcements and called in air strikes and heavy artillery barrages. Although the U.S. company took heavy casualties in the initial contact, a U.S. spokesman said over-all casualties for the full engagement were light.

In the third clash, lasting only five minutes, another company of the 25th reported killing five North Vietnamese 12 miles northwest of Plei Djereng.

Units of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division reported capturing 27 Viet Cong Sunday in scattered skirmishes in War Zone C during Operation Attleboro.

While contact was light in this operation 65 miles northwest of Saigon, the U.S. infantrymen uncovered 358 tons of rice 15

Court Rules Against Rights Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today that states can declare their properties out of bounds for civil rights demonstrators.

Moreover, by a 5-4 vote in a Florida case, the court held demonstrators who refuse an official request to leave can be arrested under trespass ordinances.

Significantly, the majority opinion was written by Justice Hugo Black, recognized protector of free speech guarantees.

In this instance Black said, as the court upheld the trespass convictions of 32 Negroes who demonstrated outside the county jail in Tallahassee:

"Nothing in the Constitution of the United States prevents Florida from even-handed enforcement of its general trespass statute against those refusing to obey a sheriff's order to remove themselves from what amounted to the curtilage (yard) of the jail house."

"The state, no less than a private owner of property, has power to preserve the property under its control for the use to which it is lawfully dedicated."

In concluding his opinion, Black declared again:

"The United States Constitution does not forbid a state to control the use of its own property for its own lawful non-discriminatory purpose."

Rocket Series Routine Now

ELKTON, Md. (AP) — The thrill isn't what it used to be for H.G. Jones, general manager of the big rocket propellant plant which made the retro-rockets for the Gemini series spacecraft.

"It's sort of routine by now," says Jones. "After the first flight, you expect it to go well."

Jones spoke with pride about the four 13-inch, solid-fuel rockets to be used by astronauts Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and James Lovell Jr. to ring the Gemini 12 back to earth Tuesday.

"You've got to have a sort of quiet jubilation in a propellant plant," he said.

Space Pilots Complete Last Adventure

By JIM STROTHMAN
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)

Bubbling with confidence after two smooth-as-silk excursions into space, spaceman champion Edwin E. (Buzz) Aldrin Jr. poked head and shoulders out a Gemini 12 door today to photograph the sunrise and the Milky Way.

It was the last adventure planned by a U.S. astronaut outside a spacecraft until 1968 and the first time three such work sessions were performed on a single flight.

Aldrin — whose success Sunday proved space walking can be easy and gave America new confidence to race to the moon — originally was scheduled to stay out only 40 minutes.

But astronauts and ground officials, immensely pleased with Aldrin's first two successes, agreed the pilot could snap open the hatch sooner and stay out longer than planned if he wanted to.

Standing up sooner would more likely insure success for scientific pictures of the sunrise, taken as Gemini 12 sped over the western Pacific Ocean. And after being told there were few clouds over the United States, the pilots said Aldrin might stay outside longer to get pictures of the terrain.

He was originally scheduled to shut the hatch over the United States. Making like a gymnast, Aldrin first did a series of exercises to evaluate how difficult it is to work in a stiff space suit, as Gemini 12 sped at 17,500 miles an hour over Australia.

The Gemini 12 pilots aim today to photograph a wind-whipped vapor stream unleashed by a French rocket, then add to their achievements with the last adventure by a U.S. astronaut outside a spaceship until 1968.

A Centaure rocket was scheduled for blastoff at 6:32 a.m. EST from Hammaguir, Algeria, to spew a yellow trail as a photographic target for James A. Lovell Jr. and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. Success requires split-second timing.

Champion space stroller Aldrin, whose success Sunday proved space walking can be easy and gave America new confidence to go to the moon, plans to poke the upper half of his body out a hatch of the capsule for 40 minutes beginning at 8:47 a.m.

While outside, he was to dump debris and snap pictures of stars in the Milky Way and the constellation Orion, then turn his camera toward earth's horizon to capture a sunrise.

Pictures of the French rocket's vapor, streaming between 38 and 111 miles above the Sahara Desert, will help scientists learn more about high-altitude winds which are as fast as 400 miles an hour.

The next U.S. extravehicular activity is scheduled in 1968 on the fourth manned earth-orbital flight of America's Apollo man-to-the-moon program.

Chatty and cool, former Korean combat pilot Aldrin nearly doubled the record time spent outside a spaceship by one man, Urging world peace from his lofty outpost, Aldrin left in orbit a blue and white nylon pennant the size of a cigar box lid with an American flag on one side and a sign saying: "Nov. 11, Vets Day," on the other, commemorating Gemini 12's launch day.

"I'd like to extend the meaning to include all the people in the world who have been and will continue to strive for peace and freedom in the world," Air Force Maj. Aldrin said.

Later, Gemini 12 played a successful game of space tug-of-war with an Agena satellite tied to the capsule by a 100-foot cord, testing a fuel-saving concept future spacemen may use for repairing or investigating other satellites.

Before bedtime, they separated from the Agena by firing

New Chips Off Old Blocks?

MARLO THOMAS NOEL HARRISON DAVID CARRADINE

By JOAN CROSBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—That dice game called viewer's choice is here again.

It's the 1966-67 television season, during which old and new careers will be laid on the line for you to decide whom you want to welcome back into your living room week after week.

For three of the newcomers, there is an added strain. Their names may be Noel, Marlo and David instead of Rex, Danny and John, but Noel Harrison, Marlo Thomas and David Carradine have already achieved various degrees of fame.

As the offspring of famous parents, they have both Blessing One and Strike One against their names. Harrison, personable, blue-eyed and bearing a resemblance to his father, has appeared in many television shows as a singer and makes records for London.

Marlo, Danny Thomas' dark, lively and beautiful daughter, won raves from London critics (who didn't care who her father is) for her performance in "Barefoot in the Park."

David Carradine, not as cadaverous as his dad, but with a similarity around the eyes and nose, gave a superb performance on Broadway as the Inca king, Atahualpa, in "Royal Hunt of the Sun."

For Marlo Thomas, her ABC-TV series, "That Girl," means a chance for American audiences to discover her talent and stop comparing her to her father. "You have to do things on your own to prove you can stand up," she says. Which is why she went to London, even though she had been offered the same role in the American touring company of "Barefoot in the Park."

"I didn't take that because it would have meant a whole year of doing interviews about my father. If I had time in a town, a puple of months, I could win them over, it going in and out, all they would want to know about was daddy."

"Daddy" is very prominent in Marlo's conversation. "Lebanese fathers are a lot louder than most fathers. I once told daddy, 'When you say something, it's like it is being carved in granite.' We have a great crew on our show, headed by Bill Persky and Sam Denoff, our producers, who were on The Dick Van Dyke Show. There's nothing more exciting than working with people who are not petty."

Noel Harrison and David Carradine both tried not to be actors, but they lost.

"I tried not to be an actor for years," Harrison said, on the set of his NBC-TV series, "The Girl From U.N.C.L.E." "It must have been because of my father. Of course it was, but I only know that in retrospect. I tried being a ski instructor for a season, but hardly anything else but show business turned out to be possible for me."

While his fame in America has been as a singer, Noel "allowed" himself to return to acting in England five years ago. "I made myself available and did 15 or 20 television shows and only three plays."

He admits he did much soul-searching before accepting a series, "but the pros outweighed the cons, which was probably obvious to everyone but me. Actually, it was announced I would be in the series before I ever really made up my mind. So, if it doesn't turn out well, I can always say, 'Well, I didn't really agree to it.'"

David Carradine sat in his dressing room, his hair long and so messy the word uncombed doesn't do it justice, playing with a gun.

He is portraying Shane, the gunfighter made famous by Alan Ladd in the movie, in the new ABC-TV series. He has become "hung up on the mystique of gunfighting" and can take his weapon apart and put it together again.

Ask if he let his hair grow for the role and he says, "No, I cut it." He is serious.

The son of John Carradine, known for his villainous and classical roles, David says, "I didn't think I wanted to act. I worked on a welding gang, picked fruit and painted murals. I was a disc jockey, a brewer, a commercial artist."

But the pull of the theater was too strong. Now he finds, "all the things I used to do, paint and sculpt and renovate apartments. I don't have a need for any more. I don't have the time and my creative energy is now being channeled into another direction."

RIVER PATROL of Viet Cong guerrillas, including a woman with a businesslike grip on a rifle, cruises a portion of the Saigon River in South Viet Nam. Led by North Vietnamese regulars, the group bears automatic weapons and uses leafy camouflage in their small boats, according to this Communist-released photograph.

ROCKET RECOVERY may be accomplished soon by means of balloon-parachutes ("ballutes") as depicted in the above drawing. Pictured are the proposed phases of a returning S-IVB stage of a giant Saturn launch vehicle from an orbital mission to a landing on plains in the western Texas region. Details of the recovery plan were outlined recently by three Douglas Aircraft Co. engineers at a meeting of the Astronautical Federation in Madrid, Spain.

Onion Soup Mix Makes the Gravy For Veal Steak

There's a good example of this in these veal steaks with onion sauce. The veal is mild in flavor but firm in texture. It's served with onions from a dehydrated soup mix which are definitely soft in texture but quite pronounced in flavor.

Only one-half cup of the re-constituted soup is used for braising the veal steaks, points out meat authority, Reba Staggs.

Veal Steaks in Onion Sauce
2 pounds veal round steak, cut 3-inch thick
1 cup enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 cup lard or drippings
1 package (1 1/2 ounces) dehydrated onion soup
2 cups boiling water
Combine flour, salt and pepper. Dredge veal steaks in seasoned flour. Reserve any remaining flour for gravy. Brown steaks in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Dissolve onion soup in boiling water and add 1/2 cup to steaks. Cover tightly and simmer 1 1/2 hours, or until tender. Remove steaks from frying-pan. Stir in flour. Add remaining soup. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Serve with steaks. 6 servings.

It takes about 2 1/2 tons of raw materials to make one ton of steel.

Speeding Through the TVA Is More Work Than Fun

By WM. T. McKEOWN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — (NEA)—For all his 26 years, Tom Begley had been watching the Tennessee River. Nine Tennessee Valley Authority dams now interrupt it to tame the floods and impound huge lakes.

But the river is still 655 winding miles from the Ohio at Paducah, Ky., up to the headwaters above Knoxville, Tenn. Begley wanted to race the full length of it for a record that had never been set before.

To make a contest of it, he and Knoxville neighbor Jim Lowery challenged Miami outboarder Howard Weiler, current holder of the record up the Mississippi from New Orleans to Chicago.

Two open 16-foot Crosby Sted boats were set up with four headlights each, 190-gallon fuel tanks, and twin 100-horse Johnson outboards, turning up speeds to 50 miles an hour.

For copilot, Weiler invited this reporter along, not mentioning the start and first nine hours would be run down narrow, winding channels in the dark.

Claude Fox, National Out-

board Assn. timer, stood on the floodlit dock at Paducah and flagged us off where the Tennessee branches from the Ohio and starts twisting south. Half an hour later we reached the lights of Kentucky Dam in a dead heat, and the surging water in the lock lifted us a fast 60 feet.

But out onto moonless Kentucky Lake at full throttle, the warm autumn waters spread under the cold night air. Fog, like the cotton mists of horror movies, started rising and blowing around us. Two scary hours from the start both boats were hard aground somewhere off course in the thick clouds on the lake.

Weiler cut his headlights, and as we backed free we slipped off, running toward faint blinker buoys at the end of compass runs through the black fog. Twice more we went aground during the night. Once we found we were lost in the twisting valleys, had circled, and were headed full speed 15 miles back toward the start. By daybreak we had crossed Kentucky and Tennessee, edged Mississippi, swung down into Alabama, and were headed back up for Chattanooga and the spot where Alabama joins

OUR MAN BILL moves along. NEA's boating expert Bill McKeown and outboard champ Howard Weiler of Miami (4) race Tom Begley and Jim Lowery of Knoxville (2) in the 655-mile Tennessee River run. Weiler and McKeown won by 30 minutes. The race took 21 hours, 11 minutes.

Tennessee and Georgia. Daylight gave us 14 more hours of full-bore running through the magnificent boating waters of the TVA. At each lock, reports came in that Begley, behind us, was making up the hour lead we'd grabbed by wild running through the night fog. At 260 miles, we refueled at Wilson Dam and then again at mile 478 on Chickamauga while we changed shoal-chipped propellers.

By dusk, in rain squalls, we had recrossed Tennessee, north to the river's headwaters near the North Carolina and Virginia borders, and hit the Knoxville finish line 21 hours and 11 minutes from the start, still half an hour ahead of Begley.

We'd set a record for boating too fast in a fishing boat through 655 miles of some of the best cruising water in America. Another time, we'd trade in the new TVA trophy for a chance at two slow weeks or months over the same course.

Underground Builds in S. Korea

By RAY CROMLEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

TOKYO — (NEA) — Behind the strong U.S. warning to North Korea is a war not mentioned in the headlines.

North Korean military raids, kidnappings and atrocities aimed at American soldiers in attacks across the Korean armistice zone are only part of the picture. They may be diversionary maneuvers aimed at strengthening a Red Korean underground build-up in South Korea that began covertly about five years ago.

This build-up has U.S. officials worried. It is following the early pattern of South Viet Nam, northeast Thailand and Laos.

Here is the story of that other underground war as pieced together from private talks with men with access to South Korean police and military sources:

A man named Kim one night was taken aboard a "fishing boat" off a small coastal village in North Korea.

Kim had been to a school for preparing Red agents. He was trained to ferret out a list of selected military targets in South Korea.

He carried a radio with which he could send reports to his superiors in North Korea. At specific times he would tune in for instructions and to pass on his information. He was armed with a revolver.

Kim would stay in South Korea for a period, then return north.

Other agents on the same boat with Kim had been trained at another school. One of these men was Sun.

Sun had a different mission — to get in touch with some cousins in South Korea, attempt to get them to protect and hide him. His job would be to develop a small Communist cell in the village in which his cousins live.

The "fishing boat" Kim and Sun boarded had a souped-up engine so that it could elude South Korean patrols.

It landed a handful of men at an isolated spot on the South Korean coast. From then on, except for radio contact, the men would be on their own.

This North Korean agent penetration has been steadily increasing since 1961.

Today, North Korea is sending men like Kim and Sun into South Korea at the rate of about 200 a year, double the rate of a year ago.

These agents have done some killing. But it is believed the Red organization in South Korea is not yet strong enough to operate widespread political, terroristic or guerrilla efforts on a sustained basis.

But the South Korean police have found that these armed agents of late have tended to shoot their way out of tough situations.

There are bright spots in the picture. Considerable numbers of these agents are being captured. Their neighbors and relatives are reporting them to the police.

Then, too, some agents find themselves up against counter-propaganda too strong to resist. The relatives they have been sent to sell on working with the Communists convince them they should turn themselves in.

How many agents have secretly established themselves in villages isn't known.

But with U.S. assistance, South Korea's police are developing secret intelligence methods to meet the agent build-up.

HOPE (ARK) STAR. Printed by Offset

SOME OBSERVERS BELIEVE the recent attack on U.S. military policemen at the Korean truce line was not isolated. The dead received full military rites.
